

LIFE WAS A MISERY TO HER

Says this Woman Until Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Carrollton, Ky.—"I suffered almost two years with female weakness. I could not walk any distance, ride or take any exercise at all without resting. If I swept the floor or did any kind of work it would bring my sickness on. I was weak and languid, had no energy, and life was a misery to me. I was under the care of a good physician for several months and tried other remedies. I had read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking twelve bottles I found myself much improved and I took six more. I have never had any more trouble in that respect since. I have done all kinds of work and at present am an attendant at a state hospital and am feeling fine. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to dozens of my friends and shall always recommend it."—LILLIAN THARP, 824 S. 6th St., Carrollton, Ky.

Frantic With Pain

A Physical Wreck From Kidney Trouble, But DOAN'S Made Her Well.

"Kidney trouble made a complete wreck of me," says Mrs. Wm. Harvey, 621 N. Eighth St., Grants Pass, Ore. "I was so despondent and miserable it seemed I had nothing left to live for. Death would have been a welcome relief. For six months I was in bed and never expected to leave it alive. I was too weak to move without the help of my nurse and so nervous I screamed when she touched me. My back and head hurt like a throbbing toothache. I had awful dizzy spells, my eyesight failed, my hands and feet felt dead. I was racked all over. The kidney secretions looked like thick, black coffee and burned terribly. They almost stopped passing and then my feet bloated like bags of water. I was frantic with pain, and thought I would lose my reason. I had lost all faith in medicine and tried Doan's Kidney Pills only because a dear friend asked me. Right from the start I began to feel better. Doan's cured me."

Whisky Buried Deep in the Bay

How Canadian Smugglers Cached Wholesale Quantities of "Booze."

BROUGHT FROM VANCOUVER

Arrests in Seattle Cause Breakup of Big Ring—Trips Between Seattle and Vancouver Were Made Under Cover of Darkness.

Seattle, Wash.—Watery depths of Elliott bay formed the hiding place in which a liquor smuggling ring cached wholesale quantities of Canadian whisky brought by boat from Vancouver prior to the arrest of four of its members, according to disclosures made by Lieut. E. C. Collier, head of the police dry squad, says a recent issue of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Lieutenant Collier made public the information regarding the ring following the sentencing of two of its members in federal court and the failure of the launch operated by the gang to arrive at its customary place in keeping with the schedule planned previous to the arrest of the four members of the ring.

Gus Hanson, licensed mariner, and John Morris, a deck hand, were sentenced to serve 90 days in the county jail and pay a fine of $200 by Judge Jeremiah Netter when they pleaded guilty to transporting liquor. The charges against them were the first in this district to be filed directly under the authority of the new federal prohibition law. Bert Jackson and John Olson, laborers, were arrested at the same time Hanson and Morris were taken and are still held in the city jail.

The arrest of the quartette took place at the base of a 200-foot cliff on Magnolia bluff while the men were taking the last 180 quarts of Canadian whisky out of the water preparatory to carrying it to the top of the cliff above and storing it in a thickets less than forty yards off Magnolia boulevard near the southern end of Thirty-seventh avenue west.

A member of the dry squad had purchased the amount in question by making an initial payment with marked money, when he was joined by his fellow squad members, and the four men arrested. The launch that had brought the whisky from Vancouver was scheduled to return with another load some time between midnight and daylight. In the morning dry squad officers waited in vain for its arrival at the customary point off Magnolia bluff.

According to the plan of operation as gathered by Lieutenant Collier, the ring was composed of about seven men, three of them thoroughly versed in navigation and particularly acquainted with sound waters. Trips between Seattle and Vancouver were made entirely under the cover of darkness, the boat taking its load at a scheduled spot near Vancouver and unloading it into the bay off Magnolia bluff.

Each sack was tied to a small cord and lowered to the bottom of the bay, the cords being tied together on an iron bar and the bar placed under shallow water near the shore. The sacks containing the whisky seized by the dry squad were still wringing wet when found, while a maze of cords was discovered near the water's edge where they had been discarded.

The path up the side of the cliff showed that the place had been used for some time, apparently for the purpose of bringing up whisky.

Modern Life Is the Cause of Ills

Brings About Innumerable Necessities for Adjustment in Individual.

MANY CURED DURING WAR

Medical Expert on the Psychoses and Neuroses Developed in Struggle—Chronic Worry Relieved After—Real Reason Is Found.

New York.—Fear and anxiety, twin demons that make miserable so many lives, have their origin in inward conflict and can only be conquered by tracing the trouble to its source, says Dr. Frankwood E. Williams, associate medical director of the national committee for mental hygiene, in the current number of Mental Hygiene.

Complex community life brings about innumerable necessities for adjustment in the individual, and failure to make these adjustments with a measurable degree of success is often responsible for so-called mental or nervous ills, technically termed psychoses or neuroses, according to Doctor Williams, who uses illustrations from the recent war to make this point clear.

During the war many men, finding themselves in apparently intolerable positions, sought unconscious refuge in mental or nervous breakdowns. By tracing the history of the conflict so terminating the greater percentage of the men might have been sent back to their commands completely restored and ready to face whatever might come. In fact, Doctor Williams says, many men of this type did recover completely with the aid of rest and proper psychiatric treatment, and fought bravely.

The measure of a man's success in handling life's problems, according to the article, lies in his skill in adjusting himself to the complicated life of modern society. Some fall completely, developing psychoses of a more or less serious nature, others are partly successful, but the difficulties of adjustment set up nervous disturbances that render them neurotic, while the majority succeed in making their adjustments without too great difficulty.

Relieving Chronic Worry. Even among those who are apparently successful, however, thousands are found who are annoyed by anxiety, who are "chronic worriers," and whose uneasiness arises from an inner conflict which may be got at by the use of proper methods and relieved. Doctor Williams says there may be obvious reasons for anxiety or fear, and that these should not be overlooked, but that often the real reason lies deep and must be carefully sought after before relief can come.

It is in these cases that the psychiatrist finds his deepest interest and his greatest chance to help. "Where the reaction is out of all proportion to a reasonably assignable cause, or where no reasonable cause may be found, then expert guidance and help are needed," says Doctor Williams, citing instances of persons afraid to ride in the subway, fearful of being alone, in comfortable, happy surroundings and worrying, and crying without apparent cause.

To Tear Down Haunted House.

Pineville, W. Va.—Ghosts, spooks and spirits will have to find a new playground, for the famous haunted house at Harman, near here, is to be torn down. The place has been occupied for only short periods for more than 25 years, even though the owner offered it rent free. The few families that did occupy the house left in terror with tales of the mysterious walking of chairs and tables, door rattings, rattling of dishes and pans and the removal of covers from persons occupying beds.

Keeping Candy Pure

Agricultural Department Tries to Protect Public.

Must Carry Label That Tells the Truth Manufacturers Are Told.

Candy in interstate commerce, the United States department of agriculture tells the manufacturers, must be pure, and must carry a label that tells the truth. The box or container that goes to the consumer should bear a conspicuous label showing the net weight. When the candy is put up under the name of the wholesaler or jobber, the name appearing on the label should be preceded by "manufactured for" or some such words, so that the purchaser may know that the name is not that of the manufacturer. Mixed candies labeled "fruit flavors" are misbranded if any artificial fruit flavors are used. The word "maple" or even the picture of a maple leaf must not appear on the label of confections in which no maple sugar or syrup is used. A false or misleading statement appearing on the label is not cured by a correct statement somewhere else on the label.

On the question of purity, harmless colors that do not conceal inferiority are permitted. The use of shellac and other gums for coating is prohibited. The department holds that saccharin is injurious to health and its use in candy is prohibited. Tale, terra alba, barytes, chrome yellow, alcohol, narcotic drugs and mineral substances of all kinds are specifically forbidden in confectionery by the terms of the law. The use of cocoa dust in the manufacture of chocolate goods is held to be objectionable. A harmless mineral oil may be used as a slab dressing if used in such way that little or none of the oil is incorporated in the finished

BELOVED GOLF CAME FIRST

Little Things Like Marital Ties and the Demands of Business Didn't Worry These Devotees.

A golfer's wife had just told her husband that she intended to leave him forever, not because he was a golfer, but for some other reason.

"Will nothing alter your decision? Will nothing induce you to stay?" he asked.

The wife was obdurate. "Well, he said, 'it is a terrible shock, but while you are packing, I think I will go out on the lawn and do a little putting!'"

This is reminiscent of a story of one of the heroes of golf, an Edinburgh luncheon who lived a hundred years ago or thereabouts. He was so devoted to the game that he started playing at dawn and was seen at night putting on the greens by the light of a candle. At last his wife applied for a separation on the ground that her husband was not attending to his business.

He went to the court, admitted the impeachment, and said: "She can have all I got if she will give me so much a week to buy golf balls. She can look after the business!"

Brazil May Remove Capital.

A remarkable plan for the wholesale removal of the capital of a country is being considered in Brazil. It has been suggested that Rio de Janeiro be abandoned as the capital and an entirely new capital with all the accompaniments of an entirely new site established in the state of Guvaz. It is proposed to make the change in the course of five or six years.

ALL SHE WANTED TO HEAR

Possibly Clerk Had More Information to Give Out, but Elizabeth Wouldn't Wait.

Elizabeth tripped blithely into the country post office.

"I want to know," she demanded with a tell-tale blush as she handed the clerk a pink communication addressed to her lover, "how long it will be before I get an answer to this letter."

"That depends," he answered; "if he's in jail they will let him write once a month only; if he's dead broke he'll have to wait till he can earn the price of a stamp, and I have no data upon which to base an opinion of his earning capacities. If he's ill in bed he may not care to dictate to a disinterested third party, and if it's smallpox they won't let him write at all; ditto, if he's dead. Then, again, if he's got a new girl—"

At which moment he realized that the fair Elizabeth had flown.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

How He Did It.

Jones was very much surprised to see a lot of quite nice looking clocks displayed in a window, marked $5 each.

He went inside and asked to see one.

"I don't know how you can do it at the price," he remarked. "It must cost that to make one of these."

"It does," replied the jeweler.

"Then where does your profit come in?" asked Jones in amazement.

"In repairing them," the jeweler informed him bluntly.
